

Research Table: Coordination of reconstruction

Issue	Research output	How	Who to consult	When
To understand the priority reconstruction needs of a community during the response and recovery stages	A checklist to evaluate reconstruction priorities	John Hewitt, PhD student Univ. of Auckland	Architects, town planners, communities facing reconstruction	By 2009
To undertake a gap analysis for coordination capacity in terms of function provision versus resources.	A map of New Zealand's capacity for coordination of post-disaster reconstruction for various scales of disaster in various locations.	On hold
To propose criteria for assessing Local Government capability to coordinate reconstruction	A checklist of criteria, for self assessment or survey, to enable Local Government organisations to assess their current and required capability for coordinating reconstruction.	On hold
To analyse the potential impacts of jurisdictional boundaries on reconstruction	A catalogue of potential conflicting reconstruction issues between government jurisdictions for several geographically widespread disaster scenarios.	On hold		