CONSTRUCTING EXCELLENCE

When: Wednesday 7th July 2010

Time: 8.30am to 12.00pm

Theme: Construction Industry Resilience: understanding & learning from Best Practice

Organisational resilience is the ability of an organisation to survive, and potentially even thrive in an environment of change and uncertainty. Resilient organisations are able to monitor their internal and external environment for changes so they can continuously adapt before the need for change becomes critical to their survival and continuity.

This complementary CCG session explains why organisations need to be resilient, demonstrates how resilient your organisation currently is and helps you to understand what you could do to improve your organisation's resilience.

This seminar provides information for individual organisations to benchmark their resilience with other organisations in their sector, and across sectors, focusing on their resilience strengths and weaknesses, and what they can do to improve.

The workshop that is being provided by the CCG in collaboration with the University of Auckland and Resilient Organisations will cover the following:

08.30am Welcome & Introduction, CCG CEO – Peter Cunningham
